This money was invested in the country.

Because government strengthened public financial systems to prevent illicit flows.

Act against corruption. Promote economic development.